

The UCSB MultiCultural Center Presents

INTERSECTIONAL JUSTICE CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

APPLICATION DEADLINE MAY 7TH

This program is perfect for...

... any student committed to the broader principles of intersectional justice, and most impactful for students of historically marginalized communities with a political lens to living, being, and organizing.

It is ideal for students who are planning careers in higher education, teaching, or grassroots and non-profit community organizing, or those who plan to apply to graduate programs with particular relevance to intersectional justice.

PROFESSIONAL CERTIFICATE

An Intersectional Justice Facilitator is someone who has critical social justice language and understanding of the various intersecting systems of oppression harming communities and uses/implements this knowledge into the various educational or workplace spaces they occupy as we all work towards collective equity and liberation.

The requirements for the certificate include two courses that provide the foundation for an intersectional justice lens and 8 units of electives.

Click to learn more: ucsb.pro/justice

ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS NOW

(deadline May 7th!)

Click to apply: ucsb.pro/ijapply

Limited scholarships available with the support of Student Affairs!

Students looking for financial assistance should contact Jessica Trumble, Scholarship & Donor Relations Manager at jessicatrumble@ucsb.edu.

UC SANTA BARBARA | EXTENSION

Professional and Continuing Education

UCSB MULTICULTURAL CENTER

The Intersectional Justice Facilitator is a new certificate program initiative collaboration of the MultiCultural Center (MCC), Professional and Continuing Education (PaCE), and the Dean of Social Sciences.