DEATH, VIOLENCE & DEPORTATION: THE POLITICS OF CHILDREN'S SUFFERING AT THE US-MEXICO BORDER

GENEVIEVE NEGRÓN-GONZALES, PH.D.

Dr. Negrón-Gonzales will talk about the killing of three teenage boys – Sergio Adrián Hernández Guereca, José Antonio Elena Rodríguez and Cruz Marcelino Velasquez Acevedo – at the US-Mexico border between 2010 and 2013. Through an examination of these murders at the hands of US Border Patrol and Customs and Border Enforcement Agents, she will discuss how these killings demonstrate that not all children are afforded the so-called universal protection of childhood. She will also draw the connection to the deportation regime, and her 15+ years of researching undocumented young people, to discuss the politics of children's suffering at the border and under the inhumane immigration system.

Genevieve Negrón-Gonzales, Ph.D., is Associate Professor in the School of Education and affiliate faculty in the Migration Studies Program at the University of San Francisco. She is an interdisciplinary scholar of education and immigration and speaks on issues related to diversity, equity, higher education and immigrant rights. Raised on the U.S.-Mexico border, Negrón-Gonzales has been working with, supporting, and researching the lives of undocumented youth for the past fifteen years.
